100 YEARS

Empress will help celebrate local station's birthday

by Richard Westlund

Didsbury's train station will celebrate 100 years in style when an old friend rolls

Organizers of the 100 year bash received exciting news last week from Canadian Pacific Railways (CPR) that the Empress Steam locomotive along with a couple cars will arrive in Didsbury as part of the local celebration.

Not only will the old train, which was built in the steam tradition as the Royal Hudson, be the guest of honour of the June celebration, but the festivities will be arranged around its arrival.

"As soon as we get a stable date as to when the train will arrive in Didsbury we can be-gin planning other events around it," said organizer Jim Adamchick, clearly excited about the news.

The Didsbury train station was built in 1902 by the CPR and was used as a train station until the late 1960s. After that it spent many years abandoned until concerned citizens convinced the government to deem it as a historical site.

The train station was then refurbished, thanks in part to a generous donation of $100,000 by philanthropist Eldon Foote

The Lions Club was essential in the 1987 renovations.

Today the building is used by the community, as the meeting place of organiza-tions like Girl Guides, Boy

The Empress' last assignment was on the Montreal Rigaud commuter line on May 26, 1960.

Built for the CPR in 1930, by the Montreal Locomotive Works, 2816 was considered mainly a passenger locomotive, however, this class H1b Hudson-type,4-6-4 configured locomotive spent a little more than half its 30-year career operating in fast freight serv-Adamchick said the idea to lure the locomotive to Didsbury for the 100 year celebra tion occurred during its trip to Calgary.

Adamschick said the arrival of the Empress will be a nice addition to the celebra-tions and will be appreciated especially by Didsbury's older population.

Mayor's Prayer Breakfast will feature broadcaster Darrel Janz

by Richard Westlund

Darrel Janz will be the guest speaker for the 2002 Mayor's Prayer Breakfast that will be held at Westglen school on May 2.

Janz, who is best known for his long and respected career as the Co-Anchor and Co-Producer of the CFCN News in Calgary, will take centre stage at annual Didstenant Governor Lois Hole was the guest speaker. Other have included speakers Stockwell Day, Janette Oke and Rev. Dale Lang, whose son was murdered in the Taber school shooting.

The idea for the Mayor's Prayer Breakfast was moulded after former MLA Roy Brassard's experiences at similar events. He once at-tended a President's Prayer Breakfast in Washington D.C. Brassard was impressed to hear the President talk about the influence God had on his Brassard decided to take the event to a provincial level and established a Premier's Prayer Breakfast. Eventually the idea filtered down to a lo cal level.

The purpose statement of the Mayor's Prayer Breakfast is "to be obedient to God's will and direction for our lives that we should pray for all those who are in leadership and authority over us so that there may be peace in our community

Teachers continue to withhold volunteer services

Many Sundre teachers are continuing to withhold volunteer services in local schools week, joining other teachers across the province in an ongoing campaign aimed at raising educators labour concerns.

Some Chinook's Edge teachers have stopped coach-ing sports teams, overseeing drama, music and other club functions.

Withdrawing services is showing the government that if you want to take away our rights, we'll do less," said Bob Worsfold, president of the Alberta Teachers Association (ATA). "We won't do things that we don't need to do for free. Teachers are deciding that they don't want to spend the extra time doing those

There are no plans in place for meetings between the Chinook's Edge board and the local #17 executive. "They

They have all along said we have been taking direction from the ATA, but they have neglected to say that they have been taking direction from ASBA (Alberta School Boards Association), the trustees' provincial body.

Any request by the local #17 for Chinook's Edge trustees to resign would probably not meet with success, said Brassard.

DIDSBURY'S HISTORY

Papers Project brings the past to Didsbury

by Richard Westlund

Trying to fill holes in her genealogy project, Evelyn Adams tried to gain access to Didsbury's newspapers of the

She got wind that the library at the provincial legislature had every newspaper printed in Didsbury since 1907 and put a process in mo-tion that would see the newspapers arrive in this small Alberta town. She wrote a let ter asking for the papers and was told that if they were to be given out an organization would have a better chance of getting them. So she joined the Didsbury and District Historical Society. That was 10 years ago. In the time in the middle she gave the reins of her quest to the present board.

Edmonton Library officials told the local historical society that before the papers could be handed over they had to be put on microfilm so that a copy could be preserved in Edmonton. That was years

But now Didsbury's best record of the past has returned to the town and the newspapers will be housed in the Museum's reading room where the public will be able to research events, people and places of the past

About two years ago the Didsbury and District Historical Society was told that if they were able to front some of the money they would be able to get the newspapers sooner than later.

A week ago Historical Society president Dale Weiss drove to Edmonton and brought boxes of the past with him.

"It was a great feeling to know the newspapers had fi-nally arrived," said Adams. "Dale came to the house and I was very happy to see them." Weiss said the museum has experienced an increase of requests from local people want-ing to know more about the history of their homes or old

'It hasn't been the older people either," said Weiss. It's thirty-somethings in search of things.

And that's where the Pa-pers Project will be of benefit to the community, said Weiss.
"The times of our commu-are embodied in our newspapers - there is no bet-ter record of the fashions, the events and the personalities that shaped where we live. The local newspapers have always been the pulse of our community.

Weiss said the Historical Society has been frustrated at times by its inability to research the past through the newspapers. There are several hundred at the museum but that doesn't account for nearly all of them. Weiss believes some editions hade been lost in fires or just lost pe-

This is the whole story," said Weiss addressing the un opened boxes stacked on the

Because this is the last known complete set of local newspapers, Weiss realizes there is a responsibility in tak-ing care of them. Currently the Didsbury and District Historical Society Board is drawing up parameters for the papers. Weiss said gloves will probably be worn when handling the papers and that they won't leave the building. He said supervision will be provided in some cases. The museum will not let anyone have access to the papers until the society is able to purchase the micro-film reader and printer. By having the public use the microfilm, wear on the newspa-pers will be reduced.

At the same time Weiss maintains the papers belong to the community and he wants people to use and enjoy them.

He said a balance will have to be struck.
The Museum is currently trying to raise $8,000 for the Paper's Project - the majority of the funds will go towards a printer/reader for the micro-

And when the room is finally opened to the public Weiss said Adams will be the first person to have her hand in the boxes to complete the genealogy project she started

"It only seems right," said eiss. "She started the project."

Runningbird missing seven years

by Dan Singleton

The family of Rhonda Runningbird continues to hold out hope that some sign of their daughter will be found, seven years after she was reported sing northwest of Sundre.

We know that there is some hope of finding something," said father Walter Shingoose. "We to give her a proper burial. We have been able to move on with life. It's a lot bet-ter now. When it happened we just stopped everything. We didn't do anything for ourselves, but now it's a little better.

Runningbird, a mother of three, was reported missing at the end of March 1995.

At the time, her husband, Fred Lagrelle, told police his wife had left the couple's stranded vehicle, stuck on a cutline road near Swan Lake west of Caroline, in order to seek help. The last time anyone else had seen Runningbird was a week earlier when the couple left Red Deer for a hunting trip in the Sundre area.

Police recovered a handwritten note from the Swan Lake scene, although handwriting analysis of the note, described a rough one-page document, failed to determine if it was written by Runningbird. RCMP have not ruled out foul play in the woman's disappearance. Her parents believe she was murdered.

Numerous searches by family, friends, RCMP, Search and Rescue personnel and others of the heavily-wooded Swan Lake area have failed to turn up any clue as to her whereabouts

It's not known if another search will be conducted this

As well, Runningbird has not contacted any family members or friends, and has not sought medical attention for a erious ailment she was known to suffer from.

Family members have searched Swan Lake every summer since 1996.

In an interview in 2000, Fred Lagrelle said he thought Runningbird had been picked up by a motorist.

Alliance chances slim

RICHARD WESTLUND EDITORIAL

Now that the Canadian Alliance has a new leader in Stephen Harper, the party has a chance to make improvements to its im-

The election of a new party leader resulted because of months on inner-party turmoil and infighting. A new leader could be perceived a fresh start, but with Calgary MP hopeful Ezra Levant refusing to step down so the leader could get into the house the new beginning is off to a rocky start.

Citizens in the Wild Rose Riding have been unwilling to give the Liberal party a chance in the area, as Myron Thompson has won his seat easily since he first got into power. That suggests we want a non-Liberal government for Canada. But that support has waivered since the last Federal election because of problems in the party and the lack of Alliance MPs playing follow the leader.

For the record Thompson stuck by former-leader Stockwell

Day right up until the end.
So what will the Alliance do to become a viable alternative? So what will the Alliance do to become a viable alternative? Will they perform a miracle and convince the Progressive Conservatives to merge? Can they pursuade the voters of Manitoba east to vote for the right? Can they make any improvement on last election's results?

That remains to be seen - but it is unlikely. The Alliance carried momentum into the last election despite the attacks on Day as the election grew closer.

The formation of the Canadian Alliance it econod proceed.

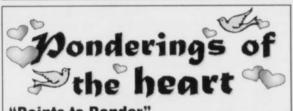

The formation of the Canadian Alliance, it seemed, needed more time from its formation leading up to the election to be more effective it seemed.

And that is the feeling once again. The election of a new leader and the attempt to shake off the past year-and-a-half of infighting starts now, which means the party starts at square one again

It is unlikely the Alliance will be able to get the amount of work needed to be done on time, unless the Liberal Party self-destructs the way the Alliance did.

And the only way that would happen is if the party became fragmented during the election of a new leader - that is if Chretien decides to step down.

"Points to Ponder"

by Margaret Fradley

Recently, following the Olympic Games, two cross country skiers tested positive to using drugs to enhance their race. These skiers had just been awarded the silver and gold medals, respectively. The medals were not taken from them but where does that leave the Canadian bronze

The sad story here is that these so called highly respected athletes, allowed the drive, the passion, the desire and even the greed to win, sacrifice their honesty and in-tegrity in order to obtain the prize.

Even if these athletes had not been 'found out', would they have been inwardly satisfied knowing what it took to win the medals; and now that they have been discovered they have both embarrassed and disgraced themselves and their respective countries. Where is the merit?

Perhaps all the hard and tedious months and years of practice of finally making it to the Olympics, can result in this kind of fervor to win. The question now remains; "was it worth it?" The time always comes when we have to 'count the cost'. Surely our integrity is worth more than all of

"Flying Tax" questions unanswered

In order to ram through the new Air Travellers Charge (ATSC), aka: the 'flying tax', the federal Liberals shut down debate for the 75th time since taking power in 1993.

Since April 1, a one-way ticket for travel within Canada has increased by $12 while the price of a round trip fare is up by $24. A flight to the U.S. now costs you an additional $12, international jaunts, $24. The flying tax is part of the government's post

September 11 security agenda. Last December's Budget indicated the flying tax would raise $2.2 billion over five years with an equivalent amount earmarked for security expenditures to be di-rected the Canadian Air Transportation Secu-rity Authority (CATSA), a new agency. But so far, only $1 billion in new equipment acquisitions have been budgeted. And the $2.2 billion estimate was based on flat line passenger volumes. With Air Canada recently reporting a rebound in traffic, industry volumes will surely climb which has led some to predict a tax haul closer to $3 billion.

This blatant cash grab by the Minister of Taxes, Paul Martin, perpetuates flawed federal aviation policy so blame must be equally shared with his cabinet colleague, David Collenette, the Undertaker of Transport, who has presided over the death of several airlines including Greyties Airlines hound, Royal, Roots, Canadian Airlines, CanJet and Canada 3000.

Why do we have to pay a tax for bomb detection equipment that is on backorder worldwide and for the CATSA bureaucracy - that by the government's own admission - will not be in place until the fall? Why does the government insist on appointing CATSA officials through patronage instead of hiring qualified officials in a transparent manner?

Why does Canada need a new federal security authority at all? Why not just set stricter secu-rity regulations and standards for airport authorities and airlines and allow market flexibil-ity and discipline (read: big ticket fines) to determine the appropriate funding structure?

Why were no tax impact assessments com-pleted? Why is Ottawa violating Treasury Board guidelines that mandate the completion of im-pact assessments before new fees are introduced?

How will this charge improve competition and encourage growth in Canada's airline industry?

Why wasn't the fee set per flight segment (the U. S. model) travelled? Or as a percentage of ticket price or distance travelled? Why not have a phase-in period? Why did the commons Finance Committee, during its limited hearings, reject all these options?

In principle, the CTF supports user fees. But where does Ottawa draw the line between pub-lic safety and private benefit? Why will public security costs at airports be borne solely by trav-

On September 11th, terrorism was directed

So why doesn't the state play a greater role in its anti-terrorism response? Almost 2,700 citizens tragically lost their lives on the ground on that fateful day with another 265 perishing on the hijacked flights. The, point here is not to count the fatalities but to stress that 10 times as many people perished who weren't flying as those who were.

What governance mechanisms will be in place to ensure that all monies raised go directly to aviation security measures? As presently con-stituted, the flying tax will flow directly into the consolidated revenue fund. It appears to be just another EI surplus fiasco.

On these questions, the silence from Ministers Martin and Collenette speaks volumes. Travellers, industry stakeholders, and the opposition parties all agree that the flying tax should be grounded.

Klein's Bill 12 goes too far

Dear Editor,

The way the government has perverted the arbitration process in the matter of Bill 12, I believe, is a major mistake on its part.

The power of the government through its appointed chair as well as the lack of guidelines in regards as to whom can be appointed by the government or the Minister of Human Resources and Employment to serve on these tribunals threatens to strip the Act of any moral authority.

of any moral authority.

It would have been more honorable to simply impose the will of the government in order to reach a resolution of these issues than to go through this charade of an "arbitration tribunal."

I urge the government to reconsider these portions of the Act and make appropriate amendments to ensure the independence and integrity of the process and those who serve on such tribunals. It is a bill that concerns even some of the usual supporters of Ralph Klein's Progressive Conservative government, one that is viewed as an Act that simply goes too far. In reviewing Bill 12, section

In reviewing Bill 12, section by section, it would appear to fall short in ensuring a fair and independent process to settle current disputes between the Alberta Teachers' Association and many of the province's school boards.

For example, we read of the Alberta government's commitment to examine the province's learning system in a study that will include, at least, a review of the number of students in a class, pupil-to-teacher ratios and the maximum time a teacher may be required to instruct students enrolled in Kindergarten to Grade 12.

In the meantime, it is taking such items out of any further negotiations or inclusion in any collective agreements between the two sides involved, the respective school district and the Alberta Teachers' Association, as cited in Section 23 of the Act.

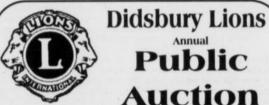

There does not appear to be a stated deadline for the study to be completed and its recommendations reviewed or implemented.

Road Ban Information

Road Bans on axle group weight restrictions will be placed on County Roads within Mountain View County during Spring break up.

These weight restrictions are expected to be in the amounts of 90% and 75% of the allowable axle group weight, excluding the steering axle (e.g., A tandem axle group weighing 17,000 kg travelling on a road that is banned at 75%, aximum weight would be allowed 12,750 kg for that axle group).

The County Constable uses portable scales and will be actively enforcing Road Bans. Operators of large trucks using banned roads are responsible to make themselves aware of the axle group weight restrictions to avoid prosecution.

Greg Whitlow returns to life after rodeo accident

After losing the sight in his eft eye in a bull-riding accident, Nike made a deal to use Greg Whitlow in a commercial - the theme being athletes who were able to bounce back from obstacles. Greg was excited about qualifying for the Canadian Finals Rodeo in Edmonton. Respected as a professional, Whitlow remembers helping out a junior steer rider, who was also competing at the event earlier in the day. Greg, who advanced from the event the year before, was happy to be back and reveled in the ambience of the competition.

But he was even more excited about the bull he had drawn in the finals for the event. He had a history with "Light's Out" an athletic black bull. Whitlow lost the first battle being bucked off Lights Out at Cody Snyder's Bull Busting event, but was able to ride him at the Strathmore Rodeo where he posted the highest score in Canada for 2001 with an unbelievable 94 points

It was conceivable that another ride like the one in Strathmore would be enough to send Greg to the National Finals Rodeo in Las Vegas - the hallmark event for a rodeo com-

When the time finally came Whitlow climbed on top of the animal and had help strapping himself to the animal. The chute was pulled open and Lights Out and Greg went flying into the ring en route possibly to Las Vegas. But the seconds that followed changed Greg's life dras-

Greg was knocked unconscious after being head-butted by the bull early into his ride. He was flung into the dirt and then stepped on twice.

Paramedics rushed to Greg and spent 15 minutes with him in the arena. From there he was rushed to University Hospital where he was listed in critical but stable condition.

Whitlow remained in a coma over a week. His parents, wife and other family members spent time by his bedside.

When Greg first started to come out of his coma, he was unable to talk. The tubes that were inserted into his body had damaged his lyrnax. Eventually silence turned into soft whis-

Even walking was a chal-lenge for Greg after the accident. He said his first steps were not good that he was not balanced and had trouble walking in a straight line eople a long time how to learn to walk again sometimes. I was fortunate that it all came back to me so quickly."

While family were present at the rodeo event and while he was in a coma in the hospital, Greg said he has been fortunate that his family has helped him out as much as they have so far.

"They spent a lot of time with me at the hospital. When I got a weekend pass my wife would bring me home."

Friends sent a variety of clip-pings from different newspapers to his mother and father and Greg said he ended up with a bagful.

"(My family) has been very leased and happy with the way things have been progressing. Often in similar cases it takes a lot longer than it has taken me, said Greg.

The recovery from the accident was sometimes frustrating for Whitlow but he amazed doctors with his constant progress and is continuing to improve - but at a slower rate now, he said.

"There are still some things that seem different today, but for normal things I am back to al most 100 per cent," said Whit-

Greg said he is very pleased and happy things are going so well and that he has been able to heal as fast as he has been able to. He has been told by many medical professional that where head injuries are concerned it it has taken him. Greg still has obstacles to overcome. He lost his drivers licence because of his condition and will have to go through a long ordeal in order to get it

While Nike hasn't called him again, Greg has received some attention because of the acci-dent. You Got To See This, a show that is produced by Fox, sent a camera crew to his resi-dence in January to capture the story of Greg's accident. Talking about the show and the newspaper clipping afterwards, Greg said he wished the story would have had a differ-ent storyline - that he had come home as the CFR champion.

Greg and his wife are now able to pick up where they have left off. Before the accident the two had plans to buy some land looking to buy and move this summer

As far as rodeo is concerned Greg is not happy with the way his career has seemingly ended. He would like to rejoin the ro-deo world again one day, but not if there is a chance he could hurt himself further.

would like to get back at it. I talked to the doctor about it and she wasn't very keen about me wanting to get going again.
"I suppose if I was told that it wouldn't be medically safe, I wouldn't have as much of a problem."

If Greg is unable to climb on to the back of another three tonne animal we will look back and miss the thrill of the ride But he will also miss the good friends and the good times that were made while he was rodeoing.

'If we were asked to resign, we would likely reject that request, very likely. I can't speak for the whole board, but I'm pretty certain that we would reject such a request."

Meanwhile, the ATA has come out against a new private member's bill introduced by Tory MLA Mary O'Neill.

The School Trustees Statutes Amendment Act states a "person is not eligible to be nominated as a candidate for election as a trustee of a school board if on nomination day the person is employed by: a school district or division; a charter school; a private school"

ATA president Booi said the proposed legislation is aimed at teachers

"It is a crass attempt to remove a basic democratic right from an entire class of citizens and would ultimately restrict the free-dom of choice of all voters," said Booi.

Walking by faith

Darrel Ja

by Richard Westlund

It wasn't until his mid-thirties that Darrel Janz started to "walk by faith"

Growing up as a Mennonite Brethern, Janz's upbringing was rigid at times and he tended to rebel.

"My faith is the core of the person I am. Like a lot of people when they are young I strayed from it," said Janz But as Janz got older and gained more life experience.

But as Janz got older and gained more life experience, Janz turned to God for comfort, strength and direction on life issues that he encountered.

"I have tried very hard to live by the Bible's teachings," said Janz, adding that he has taken many opportunities to share his faith with others.

Janz, co-anchor of the CFCN television news from Calgary will be the guest speaker at the Mayor's Prayer Breakfast that will be held on May 2 at Westglen School.

The annual event has featured other notable speakers in the past such as Stockwell Day Janette Oke and

As a broadcast journalist, Janz has received oppor-tunities to do many projects - some of which that would compromise his reputation as a journalist and a person. In many cases it was those projects that promised large paycheques.

Janz, as a person of faith and personal character, said he has often asked God for direction in such situations.

'I have often asked for wisdom in certain situations, said Janz, adding that the television station has never asked him to do something he didn't want to do. He said most of the issues that have resulted in a decision being made have been of the freelance variety.

But Janz's stature in the community has allowed him to do certain things others wouldn't be able to do.

Being as prominent as Janz is, he is able to do.

Being as prominent as Janz is, he is able to bring more public attention to a cause.

"More than anything I am able to help organization raise their profiles," said Janz talking about being a local celebrity. "It has allowed me to step up and help."

Janz is involved in a variety of causes - some of them have been high profile and captured by cameras, while nave been high profile and captured by cameras, while others are done on a personal basis away from the hubbub of large crowds and media personnel.

On the first Thursday of each month, Janz helps cook breakfast as part of the organization Inn From the Cold. Last week 17 people came through the doors at the Glenmore Temple of the Salvation Army. Janz is particularly proud of this initiative because "Jesus always emphasized footing the recor" emphasized feeding the poor".

Janz is also heavily involved with Samaritan's Purse, hosts dozens of of fund-raising events each year for chari ties and non-profit organizations and is involved on the Board of Motivation Media Assemblies of Canada - a non profit organization which annually produces a multime-dia presentation that is shown in high schools across Janz said he wasn't always generous with his time and that it took him a lot of time before he realized how much his profile could be used as a tool to help others. "At first I was selfish about my time but when I started to walk by faith I realized one of the things I had to do was be more generous. If I can help people it behooves me to use that (celebrity)."

During his presentation Janz said he will spend half of his time focusing on his personal journey and the other half about how the bible tells people they can make a difference. Tickets for the Mayor's Prayer Breakfast are $15 for adults, $8 for students and $35.00 for families and are available at Didsbury Drugs, Town of Didsbury, Contemporary Graphics and Ward Value Drug Mart.

Focus on the Family

QUESTION: Why does my son seem to unknowingly astrate me on a regular basis?
DR. DOBSON: Boys have a way of frustrating and irritating the very souls of us dads.

They leave our best tools out in the rain or they scramble them on the workbench.

They lose our binoculars and they drop our cameras.

Many of them are sassy, irresponsible and hard to handle.

Or they do things that make absolutely no sense to the rational mind, such as little Jeffrey hiding under the bed while his family runs through the neighborhood shouting his name.

Of course, we fathers shouldn't complain. We were once boys who drove our own dads crazy too, so we should cut sons some slack

When I was 17 years old, the state of Texas granted me a license to drive,

It was a bad decision.

My dad had recently bought a brand-new Ford, and he let me take it out for a spin during lunchtime one day. That was another big mistake.

Hundreds of my fellow students were milling around my school as I drove by, which gave me a great opportunity to show off. I also wanted to test a theory that had intrigued

In our little town, there were huge dips on both sides of certain intersections to handle the flash floods that occasionally swept down our streets.

I reasoned that if I hit the bumps at high speed, my car would sail over them. I was a big fan of Joey Chitwood, who was the Evel Knievel of that day, and I had seen him catapult his car over obstacles at the state fair. If Joey could do it, ... why not me?

Obviously, there was much that I didn't understand about the physics of 3,000 pounds of steel hurtling down the road.

I approached the intersection helter-skelter and careened

There was a violent reaction. Kaboom! went the bottom of the car! Then I blasted into the second canyon. Kabang! My head hit the headliner and the car convulsed up and down like a gigantic yo-yo. My entire life passed in front of my eyes. But my Texas friends were awestruck.

They said, "Wow! Look at tha-yet. He got ar under his tars." A few weeks later, my good ol' dad came to me and said, "Uh, Bo," (that's what he called me) "I just took the car to the mechanic, and he said all four shocks have blown out

It's the craziest thing. Shocks usually wear out little by little, but the car is new and they're already shredded. Do you have any idea how this could have happened?"

The only thing that saved me was a momentary lapse of

At that second, I honestly didn't recall that I had hit the bumps, so I said no! He accepted my denial and I escaped with my life.

A few weeks later, I was driving near our home when the steering column broke, sending the Ford into the curb. Fortunately, no one was killed.

It was years later before I realized that I had blown the shocks and probably cracked the steering post during "the great physics experiment."

Who knows what other damage I did to Dad's new car on that day.

By the time I admitted to myself that I was the guilty party, the statute of limitations had expired on my crime. My dad had forgotten about the episode and he never mentioned it again. Nor did I.

My father went to his grave unaware of the stupid thing I had done.

So Dad, if you're watching from up there, just know that I'm sorry and I won't ever do it again.
I'll save my allowance for six years to pay for the damage.

It was the only time I ever got "ar under my tars."

Despite all the challenges associated with raising a rambunctious kid, one of the greatest privileges in living is to have one of them hug your neck and say, "I love you, Dad.

Didsbury Army Cadets hosted the Air Cadets of #17 RCACS Yorkton, Saskatchewan on 15-19 February 2002

The Yorkton Air Cadets arrived on Friday night, just a wee bit tired, having travelled since 0630 hrs that same morning and they still had more travelling to do before they could seek their beds. We travelled in a convoy to Alford Lake, west of Caroline, AB. Upon arrival there, we signed beds and it was "lights out After breakfast, all cadets were assigned to two groups with Army and Air Cadets mixed together. During the day, these groups learned much about wildlife identification. firearms safety, compass readings, and themselves. Friend-ships and trust was developing between the cadets. A "night patrol" was initiated by the Army Cadets. Some of the Air Cadets elected to stay at the Headquarters helping with clean-up and then learning how to knit, instead of participating in this event. Most of the Air Cadets enjoyed this exercise, and were pleasantly tired at the

If the opportunity has yet to arise, you won't want to miss the Mayor's Prayer Breakfast taking place on Friday, May 3rd at 7:30 am at Westglen School where this 's special Guest Speaker will be Darrel Janz, co-an-chor and co-producer CFCN

News, Calgary.
"This will be our fifth annual Mayor's Prayer Breakfast and is meant to reaffirm. in a quiet way, our faith in God and serve as an opportunity to participate in Christian fellowship," says Roy

Roy Brassard Brassard - one of the event's key organizers and this year' ...The practice has its precedent in the National and Provincial capitals, in many cities and towns across the country all publicly affirming privileges and responsibilities of a nation under God." Brassard goes on to say that the purpose of this Breakfast, therefore, is to be obedient to God's will and di-rection for our lives...that we should pray for those in authority over us so that there may be peace in our commu-

Securing Darryl Janz a the event's guest speaker this year also holds a special significance to fulfilling the event's overall purpose. "We chose Mr. Janz because he's a public figure and he plays a leadership role and is able to identify with what's going on in the world around us."

Additional highlights to the Breakfast this year include musical selections by violinist Jessica Lefebvre, a prayer for country and family by RCMP Constable Tim Diebels, a song by vocalist Anna Casurella, Greetings by Mayor Dorothy Moore; Ap-preciation/Benediction - Reverend Colin Creighton, the Lord's Prayer - Monika with

Tickets for the non-profit event are $15 for adults, $8.00 for students and $35.00 for families and are available at Didsbury Drugs - 335-3066, the Town of Didsbury - 335-

Lone Pine Old Timers host Cowboy Hoe-Down

Become part of a Lone Pine tradition this weekend mosey down for a Cowboy Hoe-Down this Saturday, April 13 for a taste of what real country hospitality is all

You don't have to be a cowboy (girl) to join in and there's no dress code...just come as you are and have a great time," says Geoff Page, one of the many Lone Pine Old Timers who are sponsoring the event.

The Cowboy Hoe-Down is just one of the events the Old Timers help out with during the course of the year. "We usually try to support the Ag. Society by doing about two of these functions a year. It's just something we do to help out and raise a little money..." This year's event will include entertainment from "Susie Q" hailing from "Susie Q" hailing from Canmore, Alberta. "This is the first year we've had to use this band," says Page. "...they're a country band and supposed to be pretty good. The band we usually use is unfortunately not available to us this year."

Tickets for the Cowboy Hoe-Down are $15.00 each and can be booked by phoning either 337-2212 or 4566. Doors open at 8:00 pm April 13th with the dance beginning at 9:00 pm.

Didsbury High School bands perform springtime concert where is it hiding? The winter doldrums seem to be drag-ging on extra long this year, but there is a way to bring a little springtime into your life at the Didsbury High School band concert on Thursday, April 11 at 7:30 p.m. The Grade 9 Junior and Senior Bands, as well as the Jazz Ensemble, under the direction of Band Director, Kirk Wassmer, have put together a musical program guaranteed to brighten your spirits. Also included in the program is a special guest appearance by Thomas Staples, Associate Professor of Music and Director of Bands at the Univer sity of Lethbridge.

Staples conducts the Wind Orchestra, a fifty-mem-ber group that includes music majors as well as students from several other disciplines. He also conducts the chamber band, brass choir and coaches several smaller wind and brass ensembles. In addition to his conducting duties, he teaches horn studio, conducting, music appreciation and in the music technology

Dr. Staples is an active performer as a soloist and with chamber groups. He guest onducts regularly through out Western Canada and is in demand across Canada as a clinician and adjudicator. Dr. Staples brought the Wind Orchestra to entertain in the fall, but it is his role as cliniian that brings him to Didsbury this time.

Dr. Staples will be conducting workshops for band stu-dents at DHS during the day on April 11, but in the evening he will join the Senior Band in performing at least one piece. This should be a memorable experience for the audience as well as the band students, as Dr. Staples is a very personable, as well as a talented performer. There will be no admission charged for the concert, but free will donations will be accepted.

Later this month, both Junior and Senior Bands will be heading off to Music Festials in British Columbia. On April 18, Junior Band stu-dents will leave for Nelson and after their return April 21, the Senior Band will leave for Whistler on April 25 Thanks to the continuing support from the Didsbury community of students' fund rais-ing efforts, particularly the popular cookie dough cam-paign, the financial burden of these highly educational and motivational trips is greatly lightened. The festivals that the students are taking part in are not of a competitive nature but are designed to enhance performance skills and the musical knowledge necessary to help any per-

Criminals make off with meat and cheese

Increased security a Gouda idea

Thieves made off with mostly prime cuts of beef, wrapped in sealed clear plastic packages. All of the stolen meat was fresh and varied in size. Most of the cheese taken was in full wheels. Top cuts of pork were stolen as well.

"This is the first time I have been replaced in India."

This is the first time I have been robbed in Innisfail," says

He explains that the culprits gained entry through the back of the building where there is no light. The culprits disarmed the security system. The meat stolen was a shipment from Calgary received on Wednesday, says Rohrer.

For the robbery to occur, he said that someone may have known about the shipment of the meats and possibly could have been someone who was previously employed at the Meat Packers.

With the Gouda cheese coming from Belgium, it is an expensive cheese, says Rohrer.

From this experience, Rohrer advises businesses to get a back up security system, in case robbers disarm the primary alarm.

Rohrer has experienced robbery at meat packing plants he owned before in Barrhead, Stony Plain and Manitoba, but this one "is the worst ever". is the worst ever.

recent upgrade to the Anthony Henday Water Plant - expected to double the water capacity - has left Car-stairs, Olds, Didsbury and Crossfield dehydrated. Water officials, who were

The Anthony Henday Wa-ter Plant is located in Innisfail and draws water from the Red Deer River. The plant supplies water to Innisfail, Bowden, Olds, Didsbury, Carstairs and Crossfield.

The water filtration up-grade was originally slated for 2005. But growth in resi-dential and agricultural sectors has placed added strain on the system, forcing them to upgrade sooner. The new filtration system has been a major innovation

2002 insect pest outlook for Alberta agriculturists

As the 2002 crop year approaches it is time to consider the insect pest outlook for the province. Insect pests are a normal component of agricultural production, but when there are outbreak situations, it is possible to lose perspec tive and concentrate on the outbreak rather than on crop production in face of outbreaks.

"The grasshopper forecast for 2002 has received a lot of attention from the media, to the point where some people are worried if there is anything that can be done to protect crops and farming livelihoods," says Jim Calpas, provincial integrated pest management specialist with Alberta Agriculture, Food and Rural Development, Edwonton, "The grassment, Edmonton. "The grass hopper is a media favorite as the size and nature of this pest tends to produce a lot of disturbing images that even people in cities can relate to. Large numbers of grasshoppers crawling across the land and flying up onto people walking through infested fields. This is enough to make the average person's skin crawl, let alone the person in the field. Some travelers were even concerned about being stranded in grasshopper outbreak areas. An overheated car caused by a ra-diator plugged full of dead hoppers, with a windshield com-pletely smeared with more hop-

Pest management is risk management, and the key to making sound risk management decisions is to be as informed as possible about the nature of the risk. A sound pest management program is always a cost effective component of agriculture produc-tion. Always consult the lat-est technical information before implementing control rec-ommendations to ensure that any control measures are based on the pest economic thresholds.

"There are a number of pests in addition to grasshop-pers that should be considered for the upcoming season," says

Calpas. Lygus bug populations in canola were building in a number of areas throughout the province last summer. Indications are that this pest could be a serious concern in westlock, Thorhild, Smoky Lake, Bonnyville, St. Paul down to Vermilion and Vegreville all saw fairly high Lygus populations during podding last year. Vulcan, Strathmore and Three Hills saw high numbers as well. The Peace Region is also advised to be on the lookout for Lygus. Growers are advised to monitor their canola fields at the bolting stage to determine the potential for an outbreak. High numbers at bolting usually indicate high numbers throughout the entire season. The fields should be monitored throughout the season as high populations can develop even if low numbers were found at bolting. Lygus bugs can move into a field as the season progresses. The economic erage of 1.5 bugs per sweep based on 10 sets of 10 sweeps taken from throughout the field. Control is applied when the threshold is reached in the bloom stage. Cabbage seedpod weevil continues to be a concern as the insect moves further north. All canola south of a line drawn east to west across the Lacombe, is at risk. The eco-nomic threshold is three weevils per sweep based on 10 sets of 10 sweeps taken from throughout the field at the bud stage through early flowering. Monitoring for cabbage seedpod weevil and Lygus can be done at the same time using the same last year, with virtually all irrigated canola under high flea beetle pressure. A very good rule is if you had a flea beetle problem last year, you're going to have one again this year. Growers who experienced high flea beetle problems last year should be strongly considering a dual-purpose seed treatment or paying very close attention economic threshold for flea bee-tles is 50 per cent defoliation of the canola seedlings. In order to prevent the loss associated with the defoliation, insecticide sprays should be applied at 40

by Barry Williams

Despite being swept by the Drayton Valley Thunder 4-0 in the Alberta Junior Hockey League semi-final play offs, the Olds Grizzlys can be proud of their achievements.

In reflecting on the 2001/ 2002 AJHL hockey season, Garrett Funkhouser, president of the Olds Sportsmen Recreation Association, operators of the Grizzlys, said ... "The players have nothing to be ashamed Funkhouser, along with the Grizzlys' executive and volunteers, were proud to be asso-ciated with the team this year and are relishing in the team's success on and off the ice.

When the Grizzlys broke training camp in late August and headed into exhibition play nothing was known about the rookie laden roster. After the Grizzlys barely let out a roar in exhibition play, the wise men of the league made their annual predictions prior to the commencement of league play. In the tough competitive Rogers tough competitive Rogers AT&T Wireless South Division, the Grizzlys were picked by league officials to finish no better than seventh place ... boy were they wrong. In fact the Grizzlys finished second in the Rogers AT&T Wireless South Division and fourth overall in league standings. Before meet-ing the Thunder in semi-final action the Grizzlys devoured the defending Royal Bank Cup Champions Camrose Kodiaks in six games.
To some so called hockey experts, the Grizzlys over-achieved but according to Funkhouser, the players de-served everything through hard work, committment and desire.

previous Grizzlys had a couple of "go to players" they could depend on game in and game out but this season not one player finished in the top ten in scoring nor did they receive any league awards. Last year, Tyler Brosz won the league's Most Valuable Player and Most Dedicated Player, while Jared Mudryk won the Rookie of the Year. The follow-ing season, Dana Lattery was the league's leading scorer. "This season the players played together as a team and didn't worry about individual honors, Funkhouser, noting the coaching staff knew they had to stress the team angle to be successful throughout the entire season.

"We didn't have a team of super stars ... just twenty-five the best of their ability each game," Funkhouser.

With the ink barely dry on the final scoresheet, the Grizzlys management is already working towards next year with the an nual Spring Camp scheduled for the Sportsplex from April 12-14, 2002. Approximately 160 Bantam aged hockey players will be attending the camp with aspirations of gaining the attention of the evaluators in order to be invited back to the Grizzly's

Fall Camp in late August.

Before the players pack their equipment and head home, they have one important event to at-tend, the annual Grizzlys' Awards Banquet scheduled for April 20, 2002 at the Olds Legion. Tickets for the Awards Banquet are available from any executive member or at the Grizzly's office in Sportsplex

"Overall, I thought this sea on was very successful on and off the ice and I am sure this will be reflected at the annual Awards Banquet," said Funkhouser, indicating the se-lection for the individual awards was extremely difficult this year.

Besides gaining accolades on the ice, the players have excelled off the ice as five players have attained NCAA hockey scholar-ships. Don Morrison, Ryan Barnett and Brett Pilkington will be playing for Bowling Green next year, while Bruce Mulherin is suiting up for Alabama Huntsville and Rod Radmacher will be joining Niagara. Sean Offers, traded earlier to the Drayton Valley Thunder will also be going to Bowling Green. "Brett Cox works extremely hard at obtaining scholarships for the players and this reflects on the team as there are NCAA scouts at every game," noted Funkhouser.

As for the coaching situation with the team next season; Funkhouser indicated the Grizzlys will make an official announcement within a couple of weeks. "When all things are considered, it was a very suc-cessful season this year," concluded Funkhouser

Fans are reminded the annual general meeting of the Olds Sportsment Recreation Association will be held shortly and if you would like to be in-volved with the Grizzlys operation please attend this meeting as the Grizzlys are always looking for suggestions in improving the operation of the club.

Our team spent their Easter Weekend playing in the Novice Tourna-ment of Champions.

This tournament was played in four different arenas (Olds, Ponoka, Innisfail and Lacombe). Our division was played in Lacombe all weekend with 8 teams in our divi-

Our first game was Fri-day at 4:00 p.m. and this game was very exciting to watch. With an excellent effort by all 10 kids we lost this game in overtime to Peace River 5 - 4. After the game the opening cer-emonies were held and the team went out and showed what a great bunch of kids and the great coaches that have representing Didsbury

On Saturday we came up against High Level and in this game the kids gave it their all and came out with the win 15-1. This brought us into the B Division Championship Game on Sunday against Leduc. We only had nine kids for this game but they never gave up and took an easy win of 11-0. The team had a great weekend to wind-up the season and finished it with a great effort by the whole team. The coaches have done a wonderful job and these kids have improved so much from the beginning of the year and learned how to win as a team - WAY TO GO HUR-RICANES!!!!! Have a great summer and see
